

Macarthur Wind Farm

The Macarthur Wind Farm has the capacity to generate enough clean, green energy to power the equivalent of approximately 173,000 average Australian homes and also save approximately 1.5 million tonnes of greenhouse gases each year.

The 420MW Macarthur Wind Farm, made up of 140 3MW turbines, is currently the largest of its kind in the Southern Hemisphere.

Development and Maintenance

Location

Status of Noise Monitoring

Wind Farms and Health

*Generating electricity from Macarthur Wind Farm displaces electricity that would otherwise need to be sourced from the grid at a higher emissions intensity, resulting in an annual offset 1.5 million tonnes of greenhouse gas emissions.